THE GHEZIREH BRIDGE.

Another new bridge is to be built across the Nile, the Government having decided to the construction of a magnificent structure to unite Boolac and Ghesireh. The work will be taken in hand shortly.

The new bridge will be treatly metres in width and will form a most convenient connecting link between the easter of Cairo and the fashionable new about of Gherirch by the Boulac avenue. The Ghesirch quarter will thus soon form an integral portion of the Capital, especially as a doubte line of transway is to be laid across the river. The Ghesirch goal of the Capital heige will be about two metres to the north of the Ghesirch Palace Hotel, and will divide the estate of the Egyptian Hotels Company in

TRUE VERSION OF INCIDENT.

As certain exaggerated statements have been published with regard to a distart ance at 5 amanond, that high province, we are glad to be able to give the true account of the occurrence. It appears that on the morning of the 37th November, a telegram from a number of Copts and Boropeans reached the moudirish head-quarters, stating that a number of Moslems had insulted the Christian religion by holding a mock funeral, imitating the officiating priest and cross-bearers. On equivines being made it proved that seven men or the lowest class had insulted both Christian and Moslem religions. On the morning of the 37th they entered the Bl. BRITISH CONSULAR COURT.

IMPORTANT DECISION

IMPORTANT DEGISION.

The appeal of the defendant in the case of Major Nicol, of the Brife Brigade, against a local firm of carriers and forwarding agents came on for hearing systeries morning before Judge Cator at the British Consular Court in Cairo. Major Nicol had in the first instance recovered £181 damages in the lower Court for loss of goods pilfered from loggage which he had entrusted to the defendant firm to forward from Cairo to London. Against this decision the defendant sappealed, but the judge dismissed the appeal with costs. The case was made interesting by several points of public interest, amongst which was the fact that the plaintiff had insured his luggage against marine risks only and for a sum inferior to the amount of his claim. Mr. Frederick Levenux, of Alexandris,

Mr. Frederick Leveaux, of Alexandria appeared for Major Nicol and Dr. Sciortino LL D., for the defendant firm of carriers.

IRRIGATION ENGINEERING.

Sir Hannun Brown, K.C.M.G., late Inspector-General Irrigation in Lower Egypt, and formerly in Upper Egypt VI.

VI.

The preceding articles have dealt with the considerations which affect the designing of a canal project. After the designing comes construction, and after construction the use of the work to serve the end for which they were designed and constructed. To one class of engineers the construction period is the only one that is interesting; and, no doubt, the satisfaction of seeing an important work graw under one's hands is a sylid one. Moreover, the "galley" sphands, and honors are distributed when a work of sefficient importance to attract the attention of honors are distributed when a work of sufficient importance to activate the attention of the public is successfully brought to a completion; and there is astifaction also in that, though not a solid, all the world, for instance, has beard of the Assonan dam, though many have very inscourate ideas as to whom should be given the credit of the criginal conception of the design and of the actual construction. But the dam is there, whoever lathered it, and it is doing its duty, regarding which little will be known by any but those who are specially interested in Egypt and watch its drather development. Fortunate, indeed, is the engineer whose duties comprehend the work of each of the three duties comprehend the work of each of the three periods of design, construction and administra-tion, and who has the satisfaction of converting tion, and who has the satisfaction of converting his design into material structures, and of using them to produce prosperity among the people for whose benefit they were designed.

Already, in the first article, a list has been given of the different descriptions of works that an irrigation expineer has to design, construct and utilise. They are many and various. The ordinary principles and methods of construction apply to most of them. But from among them here may be selected as belonging peculiarly to the province of the irrigation sugineer such massonry works as high dams to create storage recervoirs, anionts and harrages engineer such masonry works as high dams to create storage reservoirs, anioust and barrages to raise the summer level of rivers, canal headworks to control the main supply; also syphous, aquefucts, or super-passages, to carry one watercourse past another; and lastly navigation locks. Most of these would have their foundation level below the lowest water level, and would present more or less difficulty of construction according to the nature of the foundation bed and the strength of springs over the foundations area. The ordinary wethod getting in the foundations is to surround the area of operations by banks to exclude the foundation and the strength of spining over the foundation area. The ordinary webbed of getting the foundation area. harm. The methods of dealing with springs vary in detail with the ingenuity of those in charge of the work, but the guiding principle is the same with all, namely, to attempt no violence to the spring till sufficient forces are marshalled all round it to compal submission.

The disadvantages of putting in informations with atrong springs in action over the foundations with atrong springs in action over the foundations by well-suking sin favor, and has repeatedly been employed with much success. Circular or rotangolar wells are built on well-curbs which rest on the sand at the natural beginning of the summars of the sand excavated from within by spread plant, so that the wells said bedow water level, as the summars of the sand excavated from within by spread plant, so that the wells said bedow water level as the said excavated from within by spread plant, so that the wells said bedow water level as the said excavated from within by spread plant of the continues. More bright in deal of the continues. More bright in the said excavated from within the well has recobed the required depth. The superstructure is afterwards built on a platform covering the wells.

There is also the method of getting in wells.

There is also the method of getting in foundations by the help of compressed sir, which, however, has not been much used in irrigation work in India or Rgypt. It requires -poisi plant and labour skilled in the process, as there are dangers attending its employment by untrained hands.

MARRIAGE STILL POPULAR.

Dr. Priozing, of Berlin, denies that the number of bachelors and old maids is increas-ing in Europa. As a matter of foct, says the "Dolly Telegraph," he states that marriage is decreasing only in Sweden, Prance, and Ireland. In Germany the number of bachelors standily decreases, and only in contain limited areas can any increase of old maids be found.

London, Nevember 24.

I find it hard to see the sactor trasson of all the pother of "resignation" and "dissolution that has come about. The ordinary course of events might well have catalide a dissolution carly in next session. What has happened to hasten that course or precipitate a "crist" of the was not well known to centerain, not centerain, not centerain, not centerain, not centerain that could be disturbing to many and agent that would be disturbing to many and agent and the building laws so as to permit their estimate. The sinking of the L and S. W. steamer seem any crying reed for instant action that would be disturbing to many and agent and the building laws so as to permit their estimate. The sinking of the L and S. W. steamer there are not so that would be disturbing to many and agent and the building laws so as to permit their estimate. The sinking of the model lodging the such signal and the burning of the model lodging thouse in Glasgov are both remarkable anamy be the off-pring of prolific Father Wish.

A movement is on foot smeng leading men in Great Britain and Greatary to present the comment of the community of the control of the comment of the com peril to trade, industry, and employment. This, then, is an auspicious moment for the birth of that "British-made League," to which birth of that "British-mode League," to which I offer my best wishes for success. The name of the League explains its ideals and activities. It is actuated by the large hope of gaining the support of so many people as to enable it to "regain employment for the thousands who are now workless, cwing to foreign competition in articles which could be made at home."

Apart from other uses of the Motor-car Exhibition just opened at Oliropis, it has served once more to emphasise the remarkable progression—geometrical rather than arith metical—of this great industry. As Mr. Arthur Stanley pointed out, the cars now running in the United Kingdom represent a value of rome fifteen millions sterling, and the prospects for the future promises a more than proportionate increase. The motor-car has now served its probation, and the time has surely come when its interests should receive full, if not the first, consideration upon our reads and hishways. Apart from other uses of the Motor-car is interest aboult receive full, frost the first, consideration upon our reads and highways. And the chief point for attention here is that of the upk-up of the reads, the condition of which affects the mechanical so much more than the horse-drawn vehicle. Mr. Stanley suggests, no: is he alone in the idea, the need of a central board of some kind to supervise all the roads of the kingdom. The £1,800,000 now being spent in this direction, if supplemented by the income derived from motor fione and licences, would be fully sufficient to provide the necessary funds. And the prospect of broad, level, dustless highways on all the chief routes is a drawn not only attractive but quite possible of realisation.

The magnificent pile of buildings treeted on what was known as the Carrington House rise of the pile o

The removal of the heading and scaffolding that previously obscured the view of the new building on each of its four sides has revealed building on each of its four sides has revealed a pile that is in every way worthy of its unique position in one of the most remerkable and best known thorough fares in Europa. The design not only accords with its sourcondings, but is appropriate to the purpose for which the building has been erroided. Years have passed out of recollection since the premises numbered 80 to 93, Pall Mall, housed all the beadquarter dapartments of the Army, and it will be a great convenience to those charged with the "administration of the War-

Mar. Chamberiah has senonciated on view that he was not well known to entertain, nor deethers seem any crying red to intant action that would be disturbing to many and agreeable to few. All politics are constantly on the knees of the gods, and all things are possible. But, judging by such signs as are plain to see, many thoughts that occupy many minds may be the off-pring of profific Father Wish.

A movement is one foot smeng leading men in Great Britain and Germany to promote a better understanding between the two countries. A committee has been formed, and a meeting is arranged to take place next week at Westmirater, at which Lord Arebory will preside. Amongst those who have signified their intention of both was signified their intention of both was signified their intention of Stammors, Sir Michael Pester, Sir Ernest Tritton, M.P., Sir John Kennaway, M.P., and the Rev. Dr. Horton, Prasident of the Prec Church Conneil. An address arpressing the Geirs for a more coreful feeling between the two nations has been signed by a nunber of intenetial gentlemen. Similar action taken by public men in Germany is being qually well supported.

It seems more like centeries than years since we have been groaning under the "made the since of the design to the design the destate inflicted upon humanity by the elements, because bely was apparently so near. The rocks upon which il humanity to make the weath of Glasgow is cally five but in the scene of the fire by which thirty-intened their intention of the sound to the sum of the scene of the fire by which thirty-intened their intention of the sound to the scene of the fire by which the scene of the scene. Similar action taken by public men in Gremany is being qually well supported.

loss of ten times as many lives as were claimed by sea and fire in these two recent catastrophe would, probably, pass unnoticed save by se few statisticians. Even had the same loss of life been caused in the same ways it would life been caused in the same ways it would have given the average man very little distress if it had been spread over a week or fortnight, and had it happened in some distant part of the world to people of another rea, he would exceedy have noticed it at all. In such cases the dramatic element is wanting, and therefore sympathy is not avossed. It may be a sad fact to have to acknowledge, but to dany that it is a fact would be absurd.

At last the "All Blacks" have met their match. Although the New Zealanders won on the post at Inverleit no Satorday, the game throughout was of the most even character, and up to ten minutes before time Scotland was leading. How far the result was affooded by the disablement at this point of the Soutianders to be reprimanded for deliberately rough play, it is not easy to deside. But the fact maniss that it was a bettle on absolutely equal terms. All honor to Scotland, which has demonstrated the possibility and established the precodent. May it speedily be fallowed, and may the narrow margin of victory fall next time upon the other side!

Two years ago, when the formation of a British North Sea Squadron was mooted, the German Press went into a paroxysm of fury, and denounced the plan as a direct menace to and denounced the plan as a direct meanes to Germany's naral power and a rpansion, despite the fact that Germany was forming a small but compact battle squarkon for service in the shallow waters of that see.
